

Mice by Scott and Ross

Appearance

Mice have small pointed noses. They also have long scaly tails that are almost as long as their body. Most mice have black eyes.

Life Cycle

Young mice are called kittens. Mice that are born at the same time are called litters. Baby mice are born with no hair. When mice grow up they have to find their own place to live.

Predators

Mice have so many enemies. People are their worst enemy. Weasels, birds, foxes, snakes and owls eat mice.

Habitat and Diet

The habitat of a mouse lives everywhere but Antarctica. They mostly live in houses, barns and buildings. The field mice live in meadows, fields, gardens and swamps. Mice eat food crumbs, corn, fruit, nuts and seeds. Mice sometimes eat insects.

Interesting Facts

Mice are the most common things in the grassland area. Norway mice are the least loved mice in the world. Norway mice also can find their way in complete darkness.

Bibliography

Holmes, Kevin. Mice. Capstone. 1998.

Mice.

<http://bbs.chinadaily.com.cn/redirect.php?p?gid=2&fid=13&tid=563021>. 2008.